Elk River has designed and manufactured a broad line of fall protection products for over 20 years. Elk River offers a complete line of full body harnesses, which continue to include the standard models as well as the latest innovations. These products are extremely strong, yet so lightweight, comfortable, and easy that the wearer is barely aware of the unit itself.

Elk River also offers an extensive line of shock absorbing lanyards. These are one of the strongest styles of lanyard available on the market offering double locking snaps and typically weigh around 1-2 lbs.

Elk River also offers accessories to support these items in the form of rope grabs and carabiners for added safety.
